

Alle die wie ich

What you need:

- 5-15 people
- a pillow or a chair per person

The Game:

All participants sit in a circle on their pillows/their chairs, besides one who stands in the middle. The person in the middle is claiming one characteristic of them. Everyone who has the same characteristic has to stand up and sit on another chair, which must not be next to their chair before. Now the person in the middle has the chance to get a seat. If he succeeds to get one, a new person is left and has to claim one of their characteristic.

This game can be played endlessly, or until no idea is left.
